Six New Projects in Program of MEC-STATE C. OF C.

At least six new projects will be included in the program of work of the Mississippi Economic Council-State Chapter of Commerce during the 12th fiscal year which begins May 1st, according to Bruce C. Aultman of Hattiesburg, president-elect and chairman of the program of work committee.

He said projects for the coming year were approved by the executive committee of the organization, headed by President Morris Lewis, Jr., of Indianapolis.

"Work of the MEC-State Chapter during the coming year will be carried on under nine general committees," Aultman said. "This is two more committees than in the current setup. The new committees added are for the 'Let's Talk Mississippi' program and in membership and information."

The seven other committees to be continued are: commercial or government affairs, community development, labor relations, resources and economic development, and taxation.

The new projects listed under some of the committees in addition to continuing projects include (1) work with federal and state commissions to stimulate local community participation in observance of the Civil War Centennial; (2) furnish information and assistance to local groups to promote development of airports and airstrips; (3) encourage business and individuals to give more financial aid to private institutions of higher learning; (4) sponsor the publication of a manual on Mississippi government for the use by schools and civic organizations; (5) study effects of the Landrum-Griffin labor reform bill on Mississippi law and industrial operations; and (6) promote a slogan, tag or label suitable for identifying Miss. products to the world.

Other projects of note include: plans to publish a report on successful county tax assessment programs; publish a summary digest of 1960 legislation affecting business; and staging a series of good government clinics in cooperation with local chambers.

The rest of the Council's program will be, for the most part, a continuation of various projects now underway, Mr. Aultman said.

Committee chairmen and committee personnel will be announced by the end of the current fiscal year, April 30, the official explained.

National Engineers' Week

Mississippi Power Company proudly pays tribute to the professional engineers of this area on the occasion of National Engineers' Week February 21-27.

The history of the engineering profession since the turn of the century has been one in which the engineer assumes an ever greater responsibility for the nation's productive efforts. In 1900 there were 235 industrial workers for each engineer. By 1955 the number of industrial workers per engineer had grown to 55. With the increase of engineers employed by industry, the teaching power of the individual worker has shown a striking increase, due to the increased utilization of process and product engineering. It can be seen that the growth of the engineering profession is one measure of the overall growth of 20th Century technology and industrial achievement.

National Engineers' Week is celebrated annually by the Society of Professional Engineers and other engineering societies to bring to the attention of the general public the importance of the engineer in our modern society. The theme of the Week for 1960 is "The Engineer's Challenge—The 1960's."

WAVELAND WANDERINGS

GEORGETTE B. HALL

The family of Mrs. Elizabeth Courge, affectionately known throughout this area as "Big Mama" wishes to invite all of her relatives and friends to her birthday party, Sunday, March 6, at the home of Mrs. Courge's daughter, Mrs. Easter White in Lakeshore. "Big Mama" will be celebrating her 95th birthday.

Mrs. Courge has asked that all who plan to attend her party bring with them as many pennies as they are years old. This money will be donated to the Heart Fund. We think this is a nice gesture and ladies no one will actually COUNT the pennies so there is no need to fib about your age!

The Reverend Kermit Rouse has been confined to his home this week with the flu. Reverend J. C. Rousseau preached in the Waveland and Clermont Harbor Methodist churches on Sunday. Get well wishes are sent to Rev. Rouse.

Captain Torgerson is still confined to the hospital where he is on the critical list. His condition has shown a slight improvement this week. All of his friends are hoping to hear good news from him soon.

Friends of Mr. Pete Porter, Sr. are sending him their best wishes during his confinement in a New Orleans hospital. Mr. Porter is hospitalized for tests and observation. Those of us who have known "Pete" for so many years miss his cheerful greeting and happy smile. Best wishes for a complete recovery are sent to him from the many folks who are concerned about his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rousseau, of Slidell, spent Saturday as guests of Mr. Rousseau's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Rousseau.

Mr. Ed Harris is reported to be recuperating nicely but can't "be up and doing" as yet. He wants his friends to know that he appreciates his visitors and the many get well cards he has received.

Miss Sibyl Brown, of Toronto, Canada, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James McConnell. Miss Brown will remain in the South for the Carnival season.

Mrs. T. H. Brockman, Sr., and Miss Lynne Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall, motored to Hattiesburg last Friday to attend the production "Okla!" produced by the Theatre Group of Mississippi Southern College. The ladies had only raves and praise for the production which impressed them as much as any professional production. While in Hattiesburg, they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ott Brockman and daughters.

Mrs. A. E. White and children spent the weekend in Anahuac, Texas, where they visited relatives. Mrs. H. S. Sterling, mother of Mrs. White, returned to Waveland with her daughter. She plans to stay for a two weeks' visit.

Congratulations to Tommy Bordages, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Bordages and grandson of Mayor and Mrs. Garfield Ladner, who celebrated his seventh birthday Sunday, February 21. Helping Tommy to celebrate were his parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ladner and daughter, Candy, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lafontaine and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Malvin Ladner and daughter, Kelly.

Another blue ribbon to Waveland's own Dr. Walter Hava who walked off with so many honors during last week's Camellia Show. The Duralde Clai-bornes entered some beautiful blooms also and came in for their share of show honors. It's nice to know that Waveland has so many flower lovers, and better still, they can win prizes for their entries.

Mr. Henry Carrio and his son, Louis, spent Tuesday in Waveland visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Macaluso spent the weekend in their Waveland beach home. They entertained several friends during their stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall spent Saturday in New Orleans.

Everyone is looking forward to next week and the annual Mardi Gras. The local celebration, including a parade and a ball in Bay High's gymnasium, always claims considerable attention among folks in this area. Eighth graders, Clarine Hayward and Wallace Bourgeois, both from Waveland, will rule over the Court of the Krewe of Chicapoula this year. Plan to attend as many of these local festivities as you can. Weeks of planning and preparation have gone into the floats, the costumes, and the pageant at the ball. Youngsters and grown-ups will certainly enjoy the local show. From past experience, and attendance, we can say that folks usually have a good time! March 1 is the date.

Don't forget to attend some of the best basketball games seen in these parts in many a year. Bay High School is hosting the South Mississippi B-B Tournament with games starting Wednesday night at 7:00 and continuing through Saturday night.

D., will deliver the mission theme sermon during a Solemn High Mass at the Divine Word Seminary ("St. Augustine's") here on Sunday, March 6. An alumnus of this seminary and former editor of "St. Augustine's" Catholic Messenger, Father Howard was missioned to New Guinea in 1951. After working there for 4 years, he returned to the United States. At present he is pastor of St. Benedict's Mission in Duxon, Louisiana.

Governor Ross Barnett last week received a draft of a bill which would establish a State Forestry Bank to make loans to small timberland owners for forest improvement work. The bill incorporates recommendations of the Mississippi Forestry Association's forestry bank committee which was formed at the request of Governor Barnett. Prior to being presented to the Governor, the recommendations of the special committee were approved by MFA's directors. The MFA is composed of individuals and companies from throughout the state who are interested in better forestry. Members of the bill drafting committee shown with Gov. Barnett as he received a copy

FORESTRY BANK BILL INTRODUCED IN MISSISSIPPI SENATE

Jackson, Miss.—A bill to establish a State Forestry Bank was introduced in the Mississippi Senate by Senator George Yarbrough, Red Banks, President Pro Tem of the Senate. Signing the bill along with Yarbrough were 25 other senators.

The Forestry Bank Bill is an integral part of Governor Barnett's program of economic independence which he has proposed for Mississippi. It carries an appropriation request of $500,000.

Details of the bill were developed as a result of recommendations made by the Mississippi Forestry Assn. through a committee headed by John Squires, Chairman of the MFA executive committee and forestry manager at Mississippi Products, Inc., Jackson. Recommendations of this committee were approved by directors of MFA before being submitted to Governor Barnett.

The bill as introduced would establish a Forestry Bank Board of trustees which will manage a revolving fund in support of loans for tree planting and timberland improvement on Mississippi's 5.7 million idle timber acres.

Landowners must first apply to local lending sources for funds before an application can be made to the Forestry Bank. If a local lender can provide the money requested, the Forestry Bank will insure the loan. If a conventional lending agency is unable to make a loan for forestry improvement purposes, the landowner may then apply to the Forestry Bank. As a condition of a loan from either of the two sources, the landowner must show clear title to the property and must sign a timber lease with the Forestry Commission.

Under terms of this timber lease the Forestry Commission will be authorized to operate, manage and dispose of the timber on the acreage involved during the period of the lease. The landowner shall agree to lease his timber to the Forestry Commission for at least 10 years and not longer than 20 years.

The maximum interest, which can be charged under this act is 5%. During the period of the timber lease the landowner shall be exempt from ad valorem taxes on the acreage which is being improved under terms of the lease.

Landowners who use Forestry Bank funds to supplement money received from federal government sources may incur an obligation up to $500.00. Landowners who do not use funds from federal sources may incur an obligation up to $1500.00. Funds obtained from the Forestry Bank will be repaid on a regularly scheduled basis.

NEW OIL POOL APPEARS IN MONROE COUNTY
The opening of a new oil pool in the hardwood country of northeast Mississippi appears assured in Monroe County by a new venture which was performed at 2563-97 feet. The well has been pumping for the past several weeks at the rate of 45 barrels of oil per day. The well is located near the old Amory gas field and approximately 12 miles southeast of the town of Amory.

HOME AGENTS' NOTES

MARCIA P. HUGHES
Home Demonstration Agent

Just look at those scuff marks on my floor that I just waxed! Don't be discouraged. The reason is that you put on a little too much wax or you did not buff it enough. This fault often happens when you use self-polish waxes.

A light buffing will correct the trouble and improve the gloss.

Another floor trouble you may have is black rubber heel marks. You can remove these marks by rubbing them with a clean cloth or with fine steel wool dipped in wax. Then blend wax over the cleaned area.

FOR GOOD WASHING

Sort your clothes according to color, fabric and degree of dirtiness. These determine how hot the water is you use, how long you wash and the type of agitation.

Check pockets and cuffs, shake out loose dirt, dust, sand, paper tissues and many other soils in wash water will settle on slightly dirty clothes and make them appear dirtier. You'll have fewer laundry problems if you remove such before you put the clothes into the water.

Follow directions for removing stains. The quicker you treat a stain the more likely you are to remove it. Remove stains before you wash the articles. If you don't know what caused the stain wash in cool water before you try other treatment.

Pre-treat special soils before washing. Eggs, milk, meat and other proteins will set in fabric at temperatures recommended for washing white materials. Rub the detergent you are washing into badly soiled pants, as collars, grease spots on aprons and the grimy seats of small children's pants. Dampen spots first. Apply the detergent and scrub with hands, brush or on a board. Dimpiness and grime will often disappear after this treatment.

THE ENDLESS RIVER

Life is a river on which we all float, A river that winds through the years, A heart and soul are your only boat, The rapids and falls are your fears.

The river keeps flowing forever, Toward an uncharted sea, On this river you do your own rowing, Your course is your own destiny, The river has rocks on its floorline.

It takes a good ship to land there, Your pointer and guide is God's finger, Each man has a dusk and a dawn, No one stops on his journey to linger.

The river must keep flowing on. —Kathy Edwards.

chicken broth in place of water. It takes two hours to bake a 1½-quart casserole of frozen food in a 350 degree F. oven, or to thaw a frozen cake, pudding or loaf of unsliced bread at room temperature.

Most vegetable shortenings and oils will keep indefinitely on the cupboard shelf. In the refrigerator they get cloudy and separate. This doesn't hurt quality, but let the oil get back to room temperature before you use it.

Federal Government In Economic System Important Question

The most important question facing the United States in the decade 1960's is the role of the federal government in our economic system. So said John C. Lynn, legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in an address in Jackson February 16 before joint meeting of the Mississippi legislature and Farm Bureau members.

Lynn was featured speaker at a banquet of County Farm Bureau Presidents, secretaries, women's chairmen, and the Mississippi legislature.

The applause-punctuated address pointed out the belief of the speaker that this decade will write the most decisive history of the world, but he indicated that he did not fear missiles nearly as badly as he feared internal decay of our government. Overtones of the speaker suggested the spelling of decade, "decayed of the 60's."

"If we continue this trend, by the end of the 1960's," Lynn charged, "the chief function of state legislatures will be to meet for the appropriation of 'match-ling.'" He commended Mississippi senators Eastland and Stennis for voting against federal aid to education in the U. S. Congress.

Agricultural-wise, Lynn deplored the farm program dilemma, pointing out that the farmer has a sorry sounding board for his position from the top of a stack of agricultural surpluses amounting to $10 million in Commodity Credit Corporation stockpiles.

Farm Bureau is opposed to compensatory payments for agriculture he said. We can stop it but it is difficult from the top of this surplus pile. Once again he cited Senator Eastland for taking a strong position on favor of a realistic cotton program.

Foreign production of cotton now is being stabilized, Lynn added, and the foreign demand for cotton is increasing. In a few years we can look forward to increased cotton acreage with a total annual consumption of some 16 to 18 million bales. The American Farm Bureau Federation has urged lower price supports for surplus crops so the market can fluctuate according to supply and demand so American agriculture can meet foreign competition.

Farm Bureau believes cotton support prices should not go below 65 percent of parity in the next few years, or about 30 cents a pound, Lynn said.

Lynn suggested that a good yardstick for measuring the worth of farm programs was simply, "does it provide equal opportunity or equal reward? Capitalism favors equal opportunity; socialism, equal reward."

Other key economic issues of the decade, Lynn said, are the federal budget and inflation. He pointed out that in the last 20 years federal budget has been balanced only six times, and that national financial integrity is proportionately more important than that of the individual family. Our federal monetary commitments actually involve $700 billion instead of $250 billion we think we have added.

Agriculture has plenty of housecleaning to do too, he said. We are the third largest spender with defense leading off, interest on the federal debt second and agriculture, third.

Lynn warned of the large labor monopoly and its pressures for more federal aid.

The Southern federal government down to regional Mississippi cation bill. Senate this. This will be pay for a line he said as he applauded.

DAIRYING

For successful dairying in Hancock County in 1960, here are some suggestions. Keep records on each cow and cull out all unprofitable producers from your herd.

Feed according to milk production. Feed one pound of grain for each three or four pounds of milk produced.

Enroll in a dairy herd improvement association.

Plan adequate acreage to produce all the hay and silage your cows will eat. If you have the available acreage, plan to grow some corn and oats to provide a portion of the concentrates needed.

Take advantage of the best breeding services available in order to be assured of the kind of high producing replacements you want. For most, the answer to better breeding is through artificial insemination.

Agriculture Commissioner And Dr. Gray Making Research And Study

Recognizing the rapid growth of livestock and poultry production, processing and marketing in Mississippi, Mr. St. Corley, State Commissioner of Agriculture and Dr. A. L. Gray, Executive officer of the State Board of Health, have been doing research and study as to the needs for encouraging this development through modern laws and regulations. They believe this is necessary to promote the industry and increasingly assure the consumers of safe products and acceptability of these products for both in-state and out-of-state sale and consumption.

This study and research reveal that in 40 states the responsibility for regulating slaughtering, processing and packing of meat and poultry is assigned under laws and regulations to the state departments of agriculture which coordinate the state activities with those of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in slaughter house and poultry processing packing, and grading.

The heads of the State Department of Agriculture and State Board of Health, respectively, in Mississippi agree that a modern law is badly needed and that chief responsibility for carrying out the purposes of such a law should be in the Department of Agriculture with advisory service available from the State Board of Health with reference to health matters as might seem to either department to be justifiable.

The law being prepared for legislative consideration contains the better components of similar state laws in many states which have been in force for several years. It would provide that the State Department of Agriculture would have responsibility and authority in licensing and regulating meat and poultry processing plants so that the meat and poultry would reach the retail markets with increasing standardization as to quality and grade which could be detected at purchase by the consumers. The proposed law would aid in eliminating overlapping of responsibilities and activities of the two departments and would make Mississippi's livestock and poultry industry a stronger competitor for in and out-of-state markets.

These two State department heads urge serious consideration of the proposed bill by the Legislative and support by the livestock and poultry industries as well as the consumers of the many products from these industries.

TRAFFIC COURT WILL OPEN IN JACKSON MARCH 2

Jackson, (Special)—A traffic court conference, the first to be held in Mississippi, will open in Jackson Wednesday, March 2, with several of the nation's foremost traffic court officials scheduled to participate in the three-day program.

The conference, to open at 9 a. m. in the Millsaps Student Union Building, will extend through March 4, according to Public Safety Commissioner Tom Scarborough.

Circuit, County and municipal judges, justices of the peace, prosecutors, city attorneys, mayors, police chiefs—in short, all persons affected by traffic cases—are invited to attend.

Spearheaded by the Junior Bar Association in cooperation with the University of Mississippi and its extension department, the American Bar Association, and the Traffic Court Program and Traffic Institute of Northwestern University, the conferences will touch on many Atom-ic-Age traffic court topics of vital interest to these officials.

Gov. Ross Barnett, in appealing for cooperation in the program, said of traffic courts: "More people pass through our traffic courts than through all other courts combined."

He added that most persons form a permanent opinion of American justice on the basis of treatment received in traffic cases.

"Uniformity in procedure can build public confidence," he concluded.

To appear before the March 2-4 conference are James Economos, director of the Traffic Court Program of the American Bar Association; Judge Edward C. Fisher, associate counsel, Northwestern Traffic Institute; Paul Bryan, National Safety Council; Hudson Hamm, International Association Mississippi law enforcement and of chiefs of Police and many leading judicial officials.

Reservations to the conference may be made through Gene A. Wilkinson, conference Co-ordinator, P. O. Box 673, Jackson.

GROWING TREES MEAN MONEY

Fifty-six per cent of the state's total land area is classified as forest and 18,000,000 acres of land are growing timber of some kind. Mississippi has some of the finest timber growing lands in the world. There is a long growing season and rainfall is usually abundant. More than 133,000 small farmers own woodlands. Forestry agencies stand ready to assist farmers in every way possible to bring about the rapid development of their forest lands. Well-managed private forests and tree farms show the possibilities of timber production in Mississippi.

He is Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times. He is considered an authority on the Soviet Union. He accompanied Vice President Nixon on his tour of the Russian country, and was also one of the correspondents with Premier Krushchev when he toured the United States last fall.

The 12th annual meeting of the MEC-State Chamber will begin in the morning with two sessions of the state's development. One of the sessions will feature a panel on "Planning Mississippi's Growth," and the other will be on "Financing Mississippi's Growth."

Among those to appear on the morning sessions will be: Gov. Harold King of the Federal Reserve Board, formerly of Canton; and Phillip Hammer, head of Hammer and Company of Atlanta.

"Beloved Infidel" To Be At Star Theatre Sunday And Monday

It will be probably years before the screen sees another love story as powerful as the one told by Edith Graham in her autobiographical book "Beloved Infidel" now a CinemaScope De Luxe Color film at the Star Theatre, produced by Jerry Wald for Twentieth Century-Fox.

While the book is Miss Graham's life story, it deals largely with her association with the late novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald. The production has Gregory Peck in the starring role of Fitzgerald, Deborah Kerr as the Hollywood columnist Edith Graham, and Eddie Albert as a devoted friend of the pair.

Miss Graham's book deals not with the dynamic and popular novelist of the 20's, but the fading genius of a once great man in the late 30's and early 40's. This is a dramatic story of two mature people deeply in love. Miss Graham, who was engaged to a titled English nobleman when she met Fitzgerald gave up everything to be near him.

Producer Jerry Wald has tried to stick as closely as possible to the original shooting on actual locations of the events mentioned in the book and calling on the memories of all the people who knew the great author.

The old Garden of Allah, where Fitzgerald spent most of his time while in Hollywood was to be used as a location for the filming, but plans were made to tear the building down. The owners, however, said they would allow Wald and King to use the building for location shots.

However, Wald and King were afraid that if it takes were necessary the structure would no longer be standing.

"Happy Anniversary" To Show At A. & G. Feb. 28, 29, March 1

"Happy Anniversary" starring David Niven and Mitz Gaynor with the new Broadway stage sensation, 10-year-old Patty Duke will have its local opening Feb. 28 at the A & G Theatre. A Fields Production, "Happy Anniversary" is Niven's first starring role since he won the Academy Award last year. It is also the most important screen assignment for Patty Duke, who has received tremendous acclaim for her performance as young Helen Keller in the New York stage success, "The Miracle Worker."

"Happy Anniversary" was written by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorn from their stage hit, "Anniversary Waltz." Ralph Fields produced and David Miller directed.

It co-stars Carl Reiner, Loring Smith, Phyllis Povah and Monique Van Vooren, with Kevin Coughlin and Miss Duke as the sprightly children in the story. The musical score was composed and conducted by Robert Allen and Sol Kaplan. The currently popular title song, sung by The Four Lads on the Columbia label, has music by Robert Allen and words by Al Stillman.

The anniversary of the title concerns the celebration of the happily married Niven who precipitates a crisis when he lets drop the information that he and his wife, played by Mitz Gaynor had enjoyed the benefits of marital bliss a full year before they became officially hitched.

Rock Hudson Debuts As Recording Artist At A. & G. Theatre, Mar. 4

Handsome Rock Hudson has joined the ranks of the recording artists—a natural result of the enthusiastic reception accorded his debut as a screen singer in "Pillow Talk," the new comedy opening March 4, at the A. & G. Theatre in which his co-star is Doris Day, who attained top ranking in the recording field before she also established herself as an accomplished actress.

For his bow as a recording artist, Rock waxed a platter for Decca Records with two songs from his latest film. One is the title tune, "Pillow Talk," and it is backed up by "Roly Poly," a number with a lively beat that Rock and Doris sing with a group in the movie.

These same two songs also are a Columbia platter waxed by Miss Day. For the same record company she did another disk with two more songs from "Pillow Talk." These are "Possess Me" and "Inspiration."

In addition to these three recordings by the stars of the new film comedy, Don Ray has waxed a platter for Arwin Records on which are "Roly Poly" and "You Lied," the latter also being from the picture.

In color and CinemaScope, "Pillow Talk" is an Arwin production and a Universal-International release.

"Happy Anniversary" To Show At A. & G. Feb. 28, 29, March 1

"Happy Anniversary" starring David Niven and Mitz Gaynor with the new Broadway stage sensation, 10-year-old Patty Duke will have its local opening Feb. 28 at the A & G Theatre. A Fields Production, "Happy Anniversary" is Niven's first starring role since he won the Academy Award last year. It is also the most important screen assignment for Patty Duke, who has received tremendous acclaim for her performance as young Helen Keller in the New York stage success, "The Miracle Worker."

"Happy Anniversary" was written by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorn from their stage hit, "Anniversary Waltz." Ralph Fields produced and David Miller directed.

It co-stars Carl Reiner, Loring Smith, Phyllis Povah and Monique Van Vooren, with Kevin Coughlin and Miss Duke as the sprightly children in the story. The musical score was composed and conducted by Robert Allen and Sol Kaplan. The currently popular title song, sung by The Four Lads on the Columbia label, has music by Robert Allen and words by Al Stillman.

The anniversary of the title concerns the celebration of the happily married Niven who precipitates a crisis when he lets drop the information that he and his wife, played by Mitz Gaynor had enjoyed the benefits of marital bliss a full year before they became officially hitched.
